ABOUT THE COLLEGE

Chhotu Ram Kisan (PG) College, Jind (Haryana) established in July 1972, is affiliated to C. R.S University, Jind. The college has a lush green campus of 8-acres and is situated in the heart of the town, whereas Jind is centrally located in Haryana State. The College has three faculties: Humanities, Commerce & Science and has been producing administrators, academicians, politicians, teachers, international players and good human beings since its inception.

The College is named after Rehbar-i-Azam Sir Chhotu Ram, a versatile genius and great visionary with purpose of eradicating illiteracy, poverty and superstitions from the rural community. Consequently, he was also called 'Messiah' of peasantry & down-trodden society. In order to fulfill Sir Chhotu Ram's vision various educational institutions were established across India. As a result of it, C.R. Kisan (PG) College was established in the region and named after him.

CONCEPT & APPROACH

“ Role of Public Policy and Good Governance in Transforming India”

Public policy in India is in a state of flux. The nature of the policy process has been changed dramatically with an increasing role of different actors: locally, centrally, and globally. Good Governance is required to ensure that the public policies have their desired effects. In the recent past, issues of governance have received serious attention from the researchers & policy makers at national & international levels. Today GOVERNANCE not only occupies centre stage in the development discourse but also is considered as a crucial element to be incorporated in the development strategy.

Whereas the objectives of public policy & good governance have always been for the betterment of the entire society. In essence, it concerns norms of behavior that help to ensure that the governments actually deliver to their citizens what they say they will. Consequently, both terms are so closely interlinked that it is very difficult to draw a dividing line between the two in current scenario of globalization. They are like two sides of the same coin for transformation of any country. As public policy is the major instrument of a politically organised community whereas governance is the major instrument of administration/bureaucratic behaviour, private actors/ corporate and community, but India cannot be transformed without proper recycling/interlinking both of the things. As a result, the major focus of the seminar is on PUBLIC POLICY AND GOOD GOVERNANCE by process/recycling/interlinking in transforming India, now Bharat, to New Digital India.
